Notes

DORLANT, b. Abt 1400. According to some researchers, the Dorlandt, or Dorlant name originated when a wealthy Dutchman named Van Nijenrode had an illegitimate child with one of his employees. His approach to hiding this relationship was to provide the mother and child with a cottage on a plot of level land away from his castle. The mother and son were referred to in Dutch as the dorlandts, or the flatlanders, the beginning of the Dorland name. Regrettably, there is little information about the Dorlandt offspring for several generations. The first strongly documented name was JAN DORLANT, b. Abt 1520, Kortenhoef, Vreeland, Holland.

There exists today the former Van Nijenrode castle Holland.
