Husband:	William Andrew Scott
Burial:	Mount Hope Cemetery, Battle Creek, Ida, IA

Notes

3rd Generation in America

BIRTH: Dates of birth for all but Angeline, were listed in Jefferson County records, Vol 2, Guardian Records, pages 205, 206, and 207 [General Files #2393 to #2395]

DEATH: William had diabetes. A carbuncle formed, and when it was lanced, he did not survive. His funeral services were held in the M. E., Church in Danbury, IA. He is buried in Ida County Cemetery. "Ida County soils is good enough for me" was quoted from his son, J. Orien Scott, 20 Aug 1875.

BIOGRAPHY: J. Orien Scott developed dates and places for all of his brothers and sisters. Also, Cousin Clara Scott Lacey has a paper written by Estella showing some facts. Father, William Andrew Scott, came to Iowa from Ohio with his Mother and Step-Father, John Johnson, about 1864. William Andrew's own Father, John Scott, was killed in a buggy accident in Adena, Ohio, in 1860, leaving his Mother, Susanna Daugherty Scott, a widow with seven children. Within a few years, the wife of a neighboring farmer, John Johnson, died, leaving him with seven children. On 7 April 1863, Susanna Scott and John Johnson had what Cousin Faye Scott Witt called "a merger, and then they had 14 children." Six of Johnson children, and five of the Scott children came to Iowa with their parents in 1864. The deed records in Marshall County show that John Johnson bought land in LaMoille, Marshall County, from John Hayne (Susanna's brother-in-law) and Thomas Hayne, borther of John Hayne, on 29 March and June 21, 1864.

William Andrew Scott came to farm in Danbury on the 80 acres which he bought from the Railroad Land Company, in 1882. William then bought an adjoining 80 acres from his Brother, John Wesley Scott. After Father William Andrew died, Mother Estella Scott moved to Ida Grove in 1908, so the youngest boys could go to High School (J. Orien and Homer).

*His granddaughter, Clara Mae Scott Lacey, and other members of the Scott family still belong to and are active in the Methodist Church in Danbury.

Child:	Jennie Centennial Scott
Burial:	Belcrest Memorial Park, Salem, Marion, OR
Occupation:	Housewife
Religion:	First Methodist Church

Notes

BIOGRAPHY: Jennie had 8 years of grade school, and then went to Normal School at Dennison, IA - there were no high schools in those days. There she met Clara Emmons, sister of Orrin. Jennie taught school until her marriage. Orrin also taught in the country school near the Scott farm for 9 months at $30.00 a month. At the end of the 9 months he had saved $270.00 in cash, they were married. Orrin used his savings to enter University of Iowa Law School. He had previously had 2 years of college at Cornell College in Iowa.

In September 1925, the family, except for Robert, moved to Salem Oregon. Later Florence and her Dad travelled back to Iowa in a Model T Ford Coupe, going by way of Wenatchee, WA. Okanogan Avenue ws just lined with Haydens or Hayden in-laws. [From Florence Emmons Riggs - 8/19/1976]

In 1929, my cousin Dorthea Harding, and her Mother, Aunt Gay Runyan, visited the Emmons family in Salem, Oregon. They traveled across the country that year by train, to visit George Runyan, their brother and son, who was living on the West Coast. [Comments by Elizabeth Scott Denny]
